

The shoe

Author: Leon Bevrnja Swahn

Once upon a time a little mouse walk in the forest and saw a little road and the mouse walked to the road, the mouse saw a shoe and go to it. The shoe was lost by a boy who has run and fell and the shoe fell of and they forget the shoe. The mouse sow a man and run away.

The man found the shoe and take the shoe with he and go home, a few hours later a man called and it was heard from the living room and he asked if you have see a shoe and the man tells if you see that you can call me and tell. I call he up again and say i have the shoe and i live in london, whaaaaat it is a black and white shoe. Yes it is, but where do you live, i live in london do you leave in london??Yes i do.And i live in a black hose and is the only one in the hole gate,I live in a white house but wait the house on the other side is black go to the window and say hello, okay....hello, what it's you but can i come and give the shoe to you.

Okay see you, see you (2 minutes later)

He goes over the road and say:hello here you have

Thanks a lot here you have 20 dollars for thanks, Thanks a lot have a nice day, Thank you to but can we not have a dinner some time. Yes we can but now i must go goodbye, goodbye.

SLUT