

The real dream

Avery is a girl who is 16 years old. She has long brown hair and light blue eyes. She was born in New York and has lived there all her life. She only lives with her father because her mother died when she was two. One day her father got a job in a small village.

Which was Avery's biggest nightmare to move from New York to a small village. It went a few weeks and it was time to move all the bags were packed and they drove to the village they would stay in.

The village was small and there were not so many people there. They drove into their street. The street was filled with small houses at the bottom so it was a white nice large house that looked like a castle. Her father drove into the driveway and Avery looked at the house; it looked even bigger when standing closer. They went into the house and Avery went up the big white stairs to the right so is her room.

She opens the door and walks in the room which is large and high to the ceiling the walls are white. Later in the evening, the moving car comes with their things. When she has received all her things in the room, she goes to bed. Avery's bed is opposite the window when she lies in his bed, she sees how it shines outside.

She stands up and goes and looks out the window but then it stops shining so she goes to sleep again. In the morning when she wakes up she goes down and eats breakfast then she begins to unpack her things in their room. When she stands in her room she begins to think about what was lighting yesterday. She stands at her window and looks out but all she sees are trees.

She does not think about it anymore in the evening when she goes to bed and she sees how it shines again she goes to the window and checks but she does not see where it comes from. Avery opens her window, she hears the rustling of the forest. She puts on a black hoodie and a pair of black soft pants and carefully walks out of her room. Avery goes downstairs and opens the front door carefully then goes out into the garden. She follows the light but when she gets close the light goes out but she keeps going. It is very dark so she sees nothing but she goes further and further into the forest.

All of a sudden she felt something hit hard on her head and everything turned black. Avery lands on the ground and hits her head everything goes out a few hours later she wakes up. When she opens her eyes everything spins and she sees a white bright light. She closes her eyes a few times and finally she starts to see properly. She looks around and it is like a completely different world. The trees are green, the flowers have bloomed in different nice colors, the sun is shining and the birds are chirping. Avery stands up and tries to call for help but she gets no answer so she decides to go and look.

To the right of Avery there is a large nice sea so she goes down to the water and follows the shoreline. After a few minutes of walking she sees a house she starts running and knocks on the house. But no one answers so she checks into the house but sees no sign that anyone lives there. Avery keeps looking for someone who can help her and tell her where she is somewhere. She finds no one but she sees a large high-rise building that she goes to when she approaches she sees that it is a hotel. Avery decides to go in and to the left is the reception where all the keys are to the rooms. Then next to the reception there is a grocery store that she enters. So she picks up some things and then goes and takes a key, takes the elevator up to her room. In the room there was a kitchen, living room, billiard room, walk-in closet and other rooms. It was like an apartment.

She sits on the edge of the bed and eats her grapes and chocolate then she goes to bed. Avery then wakes up in the morning again and continues to look for other people. After several hours of walking, she began to recognize that she had been there before and experienced this before. But she does not realize how she can recognize herself because she has never been there so she keeps looking.

In the end she can no longer walk so she goes back to the hotel where she then finds a computer that she turns on. She goes into the news and sees her own obituary stating that she had been murdered in the woods outside her. It turned out to be a man who had escaped from prison and was hiding in Avery's garden. He had lived there for a few days but then when they moved in it became harder to hide. When Avery ran out into the woods he murdered her because he thought he would be discovered.

Avery slams the computer down and collapses in panic and does not know what to do. She starts thinking and realizes where she recognizes the place she is at. When she was little she used to dream that she lived there in that hotel and had lots of friends.

All of a sudden lots of people her age and adults who worked at the hotel show up. A guy comes up to her and introduces himself and says that his name is Max and he is 17 years old. Avery immediately asks where she is somewhere and why it said she was dead. Max explains to her that she died in her previous life, she was murdered in the forest and that this was her second life.

Avery asks how she as a child could see that she would end up here. Max then answers that she was chosen and that her father will then come there. He tells her that her mother was here because she died when Avery was little. Avery gets to meet her mother for the first time and they are both very happy.

A few weeks go by and Avery begins to realize that this is her new life she has gotten to know her mother and many new friends. Avery and her mother have a good relationship and live together in a big house by the water. Time passes and she lives her new life and the memories of her old life disappear and she is happy with her mother and her new friends.
